Desperately seeking Santa

Lenny Rush plays a teenager determined to prove Father Christmas really exists...

NEW COMEDY DRAMA

Finding Father Christmas

Christmas Eve, 7.30pm, C4

BAFTA-winning actor Lenny Rush stars as a teenager on a mission to prove that Santa Claus is real in C4's festive family treat Finding Father Christmas.

The heart-warming feature-length comedy drama follows Chris Massey, a 16-year-old kid grieving the loss of his mum, who still steadfastly believes in Santa. But that's until his worried dad Nick (James Buckley) decides it's high time Chris knew that the jolly, red-suited gift-giver is a fictitious figure.

Refusing to take his dad's word for it, Chris decides to set out on a madcap adventure with his bonkers older cousin Holly (Ele McKenzie) to track down people who can prove his case.

Along the way, he meets Sir Stephen Fry, Professor Hannah Fry and space scientist Dame Maggie Aderin-Pocock (playing themselves) as he looks for evidence that there's real maths, physics and technology behind Father Christmas' magic.

Can he prove Santa exists and bring a sense of wonder back to Christmas, for both him and his dad?

'It's so rare to find a script that's so funny, yet has so much heart,' says Rush, 16, who has appeared in Am I Being Unreasonable?, Dodger and as Morris Gibbons in Doctor Who.

'It was also a dream come true working with the cast. Obviously, I had the legend that's James Buckley as my dad. Every teenager has watched The Inbetweeners, so it was just surreal working with him. He was so lovely and hilarious.

'But a highlight for me was filming with Sir Stephen Fry. It was just such a fun day, with some of the funniest scenes.'

Meanwhile, the guest cast also features Line of Duty's Rochenda Sandall as Chris' science teacher Georgina, People Just Do Nothing's Asim Chaudhry as a cynical garden-centre Santa and a very unrecognisable Greg Davies. There's even an appearance from SAS: Who Dares Wins' Jason 'Foxy' Fox in a cameo role.

'I really like the story, it's really sweet,' comments Buckley, 38. 'My character Nick's at a point where everything has gone wrong for him and Christmas magic is at the very bottom of his "to do" list. He's probably the least Christmassy person on the planet, while his son is probably the most Christmassy person on the planet.

'In real life, I'm also naturally quite miserable – it's my default mode – but I had lots of fun working with Lenny. I felt like I had a partner in crime. I'd genuinely say that if Christmas was a person, it would be Lenny Rush. He's definitely the happiest fellow I've ever met.'

Meanwhile, Rush says his New Year's resolution is to carry on having fun filming more TV projects.

'I'm currently shooting a BBC1 series called The Reluctant Vampire, which was a book by the legendary Eric Morecambe,' he reveals. 'It's been adapted for the screen by the Gibbons brothers, who do a lot of the Alan Partridge shows, so it's very funny.'

NEW COMEDY

Amandaland

Christmas Day, 9.15pm, BBC1

Crack open the champers... Almost a decade after they last played outrageous fashionistas Edina and Patsy in Absolutely Fabulous, Jennifer Saunders and Dame Joanna Lumley are teaming up for a Christmas special of Amandaland.

In the festive instalment of BBC1's Motherland spin-off, Lumley reprises her role as Felicity, the snobbish mum of high-maintenance Amanda (Lucy Punch), while Saunders joins the cast as Felicity's overly jolly sister Joan, who is laying on a lavish Christmas for the family at her country pile in Gloucestershire.

While Amanda pressurises her put-upon neighbour Mal (Samuel Anderson) into driving everyone there, her adoring pal Anne (Philippa Dunne) is also in tow, after her holiday plans fall apart.

But although excited Amanda wants her kids Georgie and Manus to experience the perfect childhood Yuletides she had at Joan's, frosty Felicity is less enthusiastic about being in the company of her OTT sister. And as Mal and Anne stumble across a family secret, tensions mount between the siblings.

'Joan's the life and soul of the party and she's shabby but terribly kind,' says Saunders, 67. 'But Joan and Felicity are entirely different characters.'

Saunders couldn't wait to appear in Amandaland after admiring it when it debuted earlier this year.

'I love Amandaland. It's funny, with lots of jokes, falling over and great characters,' she reflects. 'This Christmas script is full of gags and it's the kind of character I love playing.'

For both her and Lumley, sharing scenes once more was a treat.

'I haven't worked with Joanna for ages, so that was a huge appeal, and it was like riding a bicycle,' smiles Saunders.

'It was special having Jennifer in the show,' adds Lumley, 79. 'Everyone adored her, especially me. And we were playing characters as far from Edina and Patsy as can be imagined.'

Lumley admits she was also captivated by her canine co-star.

'Cally, who played Joan's dog, stole our hearts,' she recalls. '[In real life] she'd been thrown out of a car in a bag when she was weeks old, but she's the most enchanting creature and would stare into our eyes. Doing a scene with Jennifer with Cally's head on my lap was gorgeous beyond words.'

It's a family reunion... SoHa style!

Stealing the show

Will Sharpe and Paul Bettany play rival composers Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and Antonio Salieri in a tale of bitter jealousy

NEW DRAMA

Amadeus

Sun 21 Dec-Christmas Day, 9pm, Sky Atlantic (box set, Sky Box Sets & NOW)

The rivalry between two celebrated 18th-century composers is the subject of Amadeus, Sky Atlantic's lavish reimagining of Peter Shaffer's acclaimed 1979 play, which became a 1985 Oscar-winning movie.

The White Lotus' Will Sharpe stars as young musical genius Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, who arrives in Vienna in 1781 and immediately impresses Emperor Joseph II (Toxic Town's Rory Kinnear). But devoutly religious court composer Antonio Salieri (WandaVision's Paul Bettany) is tormented by Mozart's apparent divine gift, sees him as a threat to all he holds dear and is determined to bring him down.

The fictionalised series, written by Black Doves' Joe Barton, opens with Mozart's wife Constanze (The Guest's Gabrielle Creevy) visiting an older, suicidal Salieri, who tells her that he has a confession to make. The action then flashes back to 25-year-old Mozart coming to Vienna with the ambition of writing for the imperial opera. Brash and bold, he secures a commission from the Emperor to write a new piece, while Salieri has been asked to rehash one of his older works.

'When we meet Salieri, he is a very pious man who believes that he is somehow communicating God's love to the world through music,' explains Bettany, 54. 'Things are going well and he has huge successes. Then, unfortunately, Mozart shows up!'

MUSICAL PRODIGY

While Salieri is struggling to write a new piece that will wow the Emperor (who is the brother of France's Queen, Marie Antoinette), the prolific Mozart is daring in his compositions – setting his latest

Teddy, Roxana and Jonathan

Man on a mission

NEW THRILLER

The Night Manager

New Year's Day, 9.05pm, BBC1

Tom Hiddleston returns to his most famous TV role when he plays undercover MI6 operative Jonathan Pine in the second season of stylish spy drama The Night Manager.

After bringing down arms dealer Richard Roper (Hugh Laurie) in 2016's first outing, this six-part sequel – inspired by the late John le Carré's 1993 novel – sees the former soldier infiltrating the sinister world of Colombian arms dealer Teddy Dos Santos (Diego Calva).

With the help of mysterious businesswoman Roxana Bolaños (Camila Morrone) and his retired opera in a harem. And despite being a womaniser, Mozart soon falls in love and marries soprano Constanze, who is fiercely loyal to her impulsive, often childish husband.

'Constanze is a really key part of the series,' explains Sharpe, 39. 'Their relationship was a huge part of Mozart's life. Day-to-day human interactions are confusing for him, but with Constanze there is love and tenderness.'

But can Constanze help protect Mozart from Salieri successfully plotting his downfall?

'I'm not sure that Amadeus views Salieri as a rival, whereas Salieri very much does, and he is manipulating things in the background,' says Bettany. 'It's a story full of intrigue and romance.'

former boss Angela Burr (Olivia Colman), Jonathan travels to South America on a mission.

Here, Hiddleston, 44, tells us more...

How did you feel about returning to play Jonathan again? I felt I had unfinished business with this role. Through the first season, Jonathan changes – he begins as a night manager at a hotel, and he closes as a field agent for the intelligence services. Some fire was lit in his heart that can't be extinguished. Where does he go now?

Where do we find Jonathan at the start of Season 2? Some years have passed, the world has changed. Roper is dead, and Jonathan has been living another life, under another name, and runs a surveillance unit for MI6 called the Night Owls. After the chaos and trauma of the first series, there is some peace in it, and he's as close to content as possible.

What changes for him? One night he sees a familiar face, and he can't help but follow the scent. The old dragon-slayer in him is reactivated and that impels him to Colombia, into another dance with danger.

How does this season differ from the first? It has familiar flavours of what we did the first time, but is fresh and original. There is a depth and a rawness of emotion. We pull the masks away from these characters to let you see their innermost truths. I'm excited for viewers to see it.

Mrs Stone (Joanna Lumley) and Roger Winstanley (Tobias Menzies)

Dame Joanna Lumley and Tobias Menzies star in a nightmarish ghost story

Tower of TERROR

NEW HORROR

The Room in the Tower

Christmas Eve, 10pm, BBC2

The spiral staircase

Master of the macabre Mark Gatiss writes and directs another spine-chilling tale for this year's instalment of A Ghost Story for Christmas.

The Bookish star's eighth festive frightener for BBC2 is an adaptation of The Room in the Tower by EF Benson and centres on a man who's haunted by an unsettling, recurring dream.

'I've always wanted to adapt this story,' says Gatiss, 59. 'A recurring dream is such a creepy idea – it's always made the hairs on the back of my neck stand up.'

The Crown's Tobias Menzies stars as Roger Winstanley, who in World War Two confides in a stranger about what's haunting him at night.

EERIE VISIONS

'Roger's hiding out in a bomb shelter when he opens up to a woman he meets about this recurring dream, in which he arrives at a big house and its owner always sends him to the same room – the room in the tower,' says Menzies, 51.

'Roger doesn't know what's up there, but he knows it's not good. Later, there's a twist as Roger visits a friend's home and it's the one he's been dreaming about all his life!'

Each time he arrives at the house – in his dreams, across different years, and finally in reality during World War Two – Roger is greeted by its mysterious proprietor Mrs Stone, played by Amandaland and Absolutely Fabulous' Dame Joanna Lumley.

'Mrs Stone is an unglamorous part, involving full prosthetics, but that seemed to be the attraction for Joanna,' says Gatiss. 'She's spent so long being incredibly glamorous that she grabs projects like this with both hands!'

Equally important to the look of the spooky tale is its filming location, the historic Cobham Hall School in Kent.

'The exterior of the tower was perfect for this,' says Gatiss. 'We can't go into the towers as they're not 100% safe, so I had to write the winding spiral staircase – leading the viewer and Roger up to the tower – into the story. The shot from the top is amazing; it looks like a snail's shell.'

Fred dresses up as Santa!

NEW DRAMA

Call the Midwife

Christmas Day, 8.15pm, & Boxing Day, 8.30pm, BBC1

The residents of Nonnatus House experience their most exotic and challenging Yuletide ever when they head to Hong Kong on a rescue mission for this year's Call the Midwife Christmas specials.

In the BBC1 two-parter, haberdasher Violet and husband Fred fly to Asia to visit Violet's son Derek, who is in the Hong Kong police. But when they call in at the convent's branch house there, they are horrified to discover that a building has collapsed, leaving people in desperate need.

AROUND THE WORLD

Sisters Julienne, Hilda and Veronica plus Nurse Crane soon dash off to provide support, along with Dr Turner and wife Shelagh, who are also keen to track down Esther Tang – the biological mother of their adopted daughter May – who lives in Hong Kong.

'It was a privilege filming in Hong Kong and a real adventure,' says Rebecca Gethings, who plays Sister Veronica. 'For the characters, there's jeopardy and difficult conditions, because it's a scene of devastation. There have been fatalities and people injured and Sister Veronica takes charge of an abandoned baby. There's added tension because they're in a Triad stronghold, and we learn how vulnerable Esther is.'

Meanwhile, back in snowy Poplar, the rest of the medics tackle some tough medical cases. Trixie, her brother Geoffrey, and Sister Monica Joan must look after an ailing man, Mr Fischer (guest star Henry Goodman). And Joyce and Sister Catherine treat pregnant Travellers Marie (Leia Murphy) and her mother Queenie (Aoife McMahon).

'Those staying in Poplar think they have it all under control, but they're put to the test,' reveals Renee Bailey, who plays Joyce.

But there's festive fun to be had, too, as Joyce and fellow nurse Rosalind organise a lively party at Nonnatus House and take part in a Christmas carnival parade.

'The party is a real rave with people waking up not sure what's happened the night before! Everyone lets their hair down,' smiles Bailey. Martin Compston joins Jing Lusi for the all-action thriller...

NEW THRILLER

Red Eye

New Year's Day & Fri 2 January, 9pm, ITV1 (box set, ITVX)

DS Hana Li is back for another rollercoaster ride of twists, turns and high-octane action as political thriller Red Eye returns to ITV1.

After the first season saw the British detective, played by Jing Lusi, trapped on a plane, this time she's battling to uncover a sinister international conspiracy from inside a locked-down US Embassy.

'The second season is a new story,' says Lusi. 'DS Li is locked in again, but in a very different way – like in a Die Hard way!'

The six-parter begins as Hana heads to a reception for the US ambassador, as she investigates the murder of a diplomatic courier at Heathrow. But when an intruder breaches security, the US Embassy is put in lockdown, forcing Hana to deal with a ghost from her past in the form of head of security Clay Brody (Line of Duty's Martin Compston).

'Hana and Clay trained to be police officers together 10 years ago,' explains Lusi, 40. 'He assaulted their instructor and the incident nearly sabotaged Hana's career before it even started – then he just disappeared with no explanation. So at the start, she's very prickly with him.'

But as the pair work to discover who's holding the ambassador hostage in his own embassy, a trust slowly develops between them.

'It's a really exciting story,' says Compston, 41. 'My role is the stuff you dream of when you are a kid and I had great fun doing the action scenes.'

Holiday on ice

A family's dream vacation to Lapland runs into trouble...

NEW COMEDY

Stuffed

Tuesday 23 December, 9pm, BBC1

Comedian Guz Khan finds himself in a stressful financial pickle in family comedy Stuffed.

The hilarious one-off sees the Man like Mobeen actor play Arslan, who's surprised to get a huge Christmas bonus at work. Instead of paying off debts and saving some of the cash, his wife Hannah (Morgana Robinson) decides they're heading to Lapland with their kids and her brother Jamie (Theo Barklem-Biggs).

But their joy is short-lived when Arslan discovers he's been accidentally overpaid – instead of the £8,000 he received, he should only have had £800. With the help of new friend Lily (Sue Johnston), the race is on to find a way to repay the cash he's spent…

Here, Khan, 39, reveals more…

How was it filming in Lapland? My family background is from a place where it's significantly warmer than Lapland. I couldn't believe how cold it was. I wore two North Face coats and I had heat warmers in my socks in bed. Fortunately, everything else was filmed opposite a roundabout in Reading. We had a day of fake snow and sandwiches from the BP service station across the road.

Did you see the Northern Lights in Lapland? Apparently, you can only see them when it's pitch-black, and we had all these bright lights set up for filming. We were told they were there, but we couldn't see them, which makes me think it's a conspiracy theory!

In Stuffed, Arslan takes part in a talent contest. Did you enjoy the dancing? It was the worst day of my 10-year career! Everyone I sent the clips to said that I'd been set up. We had a choreographer from

NEW COMEDY

Two Doors Down

Christmas Eve, 10pm (times vary), BBC1

Fans of Two Doors Down get the perfect Christmas present this year when the hit Scottish sitcom returns to our screens for a seasonal special after a two-year absence.

But as we head to Latimer Crescent once more, not all the residents are filled with Christmas cheer.

While clearing out the loft, Beth and Eric Baird – played by The Fast Show's Arabella Weir and Taggart's Alex Norton – make the mistake of taking their artificial tree out of storage and putting it up early, causing their annoyed neighbours to come knocking.

First over the threshold is hypercritical Christine (Elaine C Smith), followed by egotistical housewife Cathy (Doon Mackichan) and her henpecked husband Colin (Jonathan Watson).

'It's an early Christmas, but by accident,' laughs Weir, 68, when she joins TV&Satellite Week for an exclusive interview. 'Not to give too much away, but there are arguments about Christmas traditions and timings.

A more welcome sight on the threshold are newly-wed neighbours Alan (Graeme Stevely) and Michelle (Joy McAvoy), plus Beth and Eric's son Ian (Jamie Quinn) and his fiancé Gordon (Kieran Hodgson). Michelle is now pregnant with her first child, while Gordon has quit his job to study.

With a full house, mayhem follows, with the unwanted guests bickering over festive tunes and bulldozing Beth into dishing up mince pies and fizz.

'It's Christmassy but probably not filled with a whole load of Christmas spirit – except the kind Cathy likes!' smiles Weir.

The episode is the show's first since the sad death of co-creator Simon Carlyle in 2023.

'Not knowing if the show would come back gives you extra appreciation of it,' says Weir. 'Co-writer Gregor Sharp has written this episode on his own, but Simon was omnipresent in a joyful and celebratory way. He'd be delighted we are doing it again. It's absolutely joyous to be back with the Latimer Crescent gang.'

New Year's Day & Fri 2 January, 8pm, BBC1

Get set for more back-stabbing and psychological gameplay, as Claudia Winkleman dons her tweeds to welcome 22 new contestants to the iconic Scottish castle for a fourth outing of The Traitors.

Following on from Alan Carr's stunning win on The Celebrity Traitors, strategy will be key to survival once again, as Traitors are tasked with 'murdering' Faithfuls without being caught in a quest to win up to £120,000.

This time, Winkleman promises twisty changes to the format and more treachery at the Round Table.

'The castle has many secrets still to reveal,' smiles Winkleman, 53. 'The producers have the greatest minds on Earth and they always have excellent ways of changing the game. The brilliance of the game is that you can have your strategy all worked out, but everything changes once you're in the castle.'

The missions are also bigger, better and darker than ever, although Winkleman says she never fancies having a go.

'Absolutely not,' she laughs. 'I never move fast anyway and my favourite thing to do is lie down. But I'm absolutely on the players' side and I really want them to do well. It's like at my kids' sports days, but on steroids!'

However, the one thing she finds stressful about hosting The Traitors is not giving away any spoilers to friends, family or fans of the show.

'I'd get into enormous trouble. Genuinely, I'd lose my job,' says Winkleman. 'When Alan Carr won the celebrity version, my husband and youngest just couldn't stop screaming at me, "But you knew!"'

Best pals Amanda Holden and Alan Carr head to Spain for a Yuletide celebration

Amanda & Alan's Spanish Christmas

Monday 22 December, 9pm, BBC1

After transforming a run-down townhouse into a luxurious B&B in Amanda & Alan's Spanish Job earlier this year, Amanda Holden and Alan Carr are returning to Moclín, Spain, to spread some Christmas cheer.

They'll be laying on a lavish party to thank all of the locals who supported them during the project, as well as finding out more about Spanish Christmas traditions.

Here, Holden, 54, and The Celebrity Traitors winner Carr, 49, reveal what's in store…

What's the inspiration behind this Christmas episode?

Holden We always wanted to revisit a build, so we had the idea to go back and thank everybody that helped us, and see what the difference was between a British and a Spanish celebration of Christmas.

Carr After every renovation, our hearts always break. We say, 'Oh, can't we buy it? Can we move in?' So when we heard that we were going back to celebrate and entertain in it, we couldn't believe it.

How did you decorate the house?

Carr There is a Christmas tradition over there of a nativity set – called the belén – which we had next to the foyer, where the guests check in. It was religious, festive and beautiful, and made me feel nostalgic, like when you used to be part of the school nativity.

Holden We also had mistletoe and a traditional Christmas tree with beautiful baubles, dried oranges and cinnamon sticks tied with ribbon. Alan favours tinsel…

Carr Amanda hates tinsel, but I love it. I'm quite retro!

You also went to the Christmas-lights switch-on event in Malaga. How was that?

Carr I love how the Spanish embrace Christmas – they go large. The electricity bill must have been through the roof.

Holden It was expensive and it looked good. In the UK, Christmas ends for us on Boxing Day, really, whereas in Spain they continue all the way through to January. New Year's Eve is almost bigger than Christmas, and then 6 January is Three Kings Day, another major celebration.

What plans have you made for the festive fortnight?

Holden I'm with my family for Christmas this year.

Carr So am I. We've all had busy years, so I just want to spend it with them. Then for New Year's Eve, I'm with my second family – Amanda's.

Holden And he's bringing his Traitors cloak!

NEW ANIMATION

The Scarecrows' Wedding

Christmas Day, 3.10pm, BBC1

You're cordially invited to a sweet farmyard ceremony stuffed with field-good fun as the Yuletide tradition of adapting a book by Julia Donaldson and Axel Scheffler continues this Christmas with The Scarecrows' Wedding.

Narrated by Sophie Okonedo, the heart-warming animation is the 13th adaptation from Magic Light Pictures, and follows bride-to-be scarecrow Betty O'Barley (voiced by Jessie Buckley) and her betrothed, Harry O'Hay (Domhnall Gleeson) as they plan their upcoming nuptials.

But as Harry searches the farm for flowers for the big day, scheming scarecrow Reginald Rake (Rob Brydon) swoops in and tries to woo Betty. Will the wedding go horribly hay-wire?

Here, Gavin & Stacey star Brydon, 60, tells us more…

Rob Brydon

How does Reginald Rake compare to your previous characters? He's vain, charming and utterly unreliable. He's a proper cad and one of my favourite characters because I've not played this sort of role before in Julia and Axel's world. I'm normally nice!

Do you enjoy a more roguish role? I do tend to play nicer characters, including Uncle Bryn [in Gavin & Stacey]. I have played other types, but they never seem to get any traction, so I want to do more stuff in the vein of characters like Reginald Rake.

We've heard your impressions in The Trip. But did anyone in particular inspire Reginald's voice? Well, I have a limited number of voices I can do, but Reginald's felt very natural and instinctive, especially given how he looks in his white suit. I gave him a hint of [1950s comedy star] Terry-Thomas with a bit of [Carry On actor] Leslie Phillips. Playing him is enormous fun.

You've starred in all 13 of these films. How did it all begin? I have five kids, now aged 32 to 14, so Julia and Axel's books have always been part of my life and it was a thrill to be asked to do the very first film in 2009, The Gruffalo, especially as John Hurt and my Gavin & Stacey co-star James Corden were among the cast.

Domhnall Gleeson

Jessie Buckley

What does being a part of Christmas TV mean to you? It's lovely being on the telly at Christmas, and as an actor, you think, 'I've made it through another year. Phew!' And I love being part of Julia and Axel's world – it's something so beautiful, warm and positive.

Reginald Rake creates doubt

Why did you want to take part in Gladiators? I couldn't say no. As a kid in the 1990s, Gladiators was such an iconic show. I can remember thinking I wanted to be like them one day.

Which event do you think you will be strongest at? Probably Eliminator. You need balance, upper-body strength and cardio fitness. A lot of the training I've done is high-intensity, high heart-rate stuff, so I'll be pretty good at that one. I'm ready…

Wicks takes on Viper

Is there a particular Gladiator who you wouldn't want to face? Because of my size and weight – I'm only 5ft 10in and 74kg – I don't want to face Giant. He is massive and I wouldn't stand a chance!

Are your kids into the series? My daughter is seven now and my eldest boy is five. They're very into sports and very active. Anything that gets kids excited about moving and fitness is great. For them to see people training and being dedicated is such a positive thing.

Wild Horses, the Rockies and Me

Sun 21 Dec, 7pm (times vary), BBC2

Wildlife film-maker Gordon Buchanan sets out to fulfil his lifelong dream of being accepted by a herd of wild horses for his latest BBC2 documentary, Wild Horses, the Rockies and Me.

Buchanan, 53, has felt an affinity with the animals ever since he learnt to ride as a child in Scotland.

'Before horses came into my life, I was unhappy at school and had a difficult home life,' he says. 'But then I got a job in a stables and being around horses gave me a real sense of trust and empowerment. Since then, I've always wanted to see horses in the wild.'

To achieve his goal, Buchanan goes to Canada's Rocky Mountains and immerses himself in the wild creatures' world, but doing so is fraught with danger. One well-placed kick from a 70st stallion could prove fatal, while the forests are home to grizzly bears.

A grizzly bear

'There were a few hairy moments during the three weeks I was there,' admits Buchanan. 'One time I was surrounded by about 70 to 100 horses and many of them were these enormous testosterone-fuelled males that were biting and kicking to drive out the competition. I realised that when they gallop towards you at 35mph, it's quite hard to get out of the way!

Sir David Attenborough showcases London's wildlife wonders

NEW WILDLIFE

Wild London

New Year's Day, 6.30pm, BBC1

A noisy city teeming with people and traffic might not seem a promising location for a wildlife documentary. But as one-off natural-history programme Wild London reveals, a surprising number of species are not just surviving but thriving on, around and above the streets of London.

Narrated by Sir David Attenborough, the film features remarkable footage of wildlife living in the city, from a herd of fallow deer dodging traffic to a harvest mouse being released back into the wild.

We also see Attenborough, a resident of Richmond in south-west London, getting up close and personal with a fox, a hedgehog and a peregrine-falcon chick.

'It's about shining a light on these animals and seeing them with different eyes,' explains executive me most was knowing that, in Canada, grizzlies attack wild horses all the time!'

Slowly but surely, Buchanan attempts to bond with a family of eight wild horses – two males he names Red and Crusoe, two mares, two yearlings and two foals he calls Boots and Socks.

Following them, he learns how they maintain strong family connections, avoid grizzly bears and steer away from the marauding herds made up solely of males.

Finally, after days observing the group's behaviour and body language, Buchanan gets close enough to Boots to scratch the foal's back.

'It was such a highlight and far exceeded any expectations,' says Buchanan. 'For horses, mutual grooming is an expression of love and reinforces bonds. It was one of the most uplifting and life-affirming experiences of my 30-year career.'

producer Gaby Bastyra. 'With foxes, we have these amazing wild dogs living among us, adapting to our city, bringing up families.'

London's pigeons have also changed their behaviour to adapt to city life, and cameras capture the birds riding in carriages on the Hammersmith & City Underground line.

'They've been doing that for 70 years,' reveals director Joe Loncraine. 'What's fascinating is how calm they are on the trains. The reason they know where to get on and off is because of the way in which pigeons navigate the city – they use roads and railway lines to find their way.'

A fox in north London

We also get to see peregrine falcons taking up residence atop tall buildings including the Houses of Parliament, where Attenborough gets the chance to handle one of the nesting chicks.

'He loves interacting with animals in a natural way,' says Bastyra. 'So when he's holding the chick, it's because it is being ringed. He'd never encountered or held one before, and he was enthralled.'

Dad in despair

James Nesbitt searches for his daughter in a Harlan Coben thriller

Desperate parents Simon (James Nesbitt) and Ingrid (Minnie Driver)

Frantic Simon

NETFLIX Run Away

NEW Available: New Year's Day
Genre: Thriller Season: 1
Episodes: 8

After starring in previous thrillers Stay Close and Missing You, James Nesbitt teams up with mystery writer Harlan Coben for a third time on New Year's Day in eight-part drama Run Away.

He stars as Simon Greene, a financier who tries to reconnect with his vulnerable drug-addict daughter Paige (Ellie de Lange) without telling his paediatrician wife Ingrid (Minnie Driver).

But although Simon tracks down Paige in a park, she vanishes again after he has an altercation, which is filmed by a bystander and goes viral, with her boyfriend Aaron (Thomas Flynn).

'Simon has achieved a lot, but he has a daughter who has disappeared, and he can't do anything about it,' says Nesbitt.

Increasingly frantic, Simon's search takes him to dark and dangerous places, and he crosses paths with quirky private investigator Elena Ravenscroft (Gavin & Stacey's Ruth Jones), who has been hired by another concerned dad to find his missing son.

'I've never played anyone like Elena before,' reveals Jones. 'I love her quirkiness and the fact she's difficult to read and unpredictable. As more is revealed about Elena, we realise she throws herself into her work to compensate for a loss. She's putting on a bit of an act.'

Meanwhile, with two assassins bumping off people on a hit list, and a pair of cops trying to keep their relationship under wraps, it's a typically twisty Coben tale in which seemingly unconnected plot threads somehow knit together in the most unexpected way.

'Run Away is about a father under tremendous heartbreak and stress. It's about what we will do to keep our family intact, and what secrets we keep within our family,' says Coben, who reveals he has fallen in love with his series' locations in the north of England.

'When you do as many shows as we've done there, you really get the charm,' explains Coben. 'What's wonderful about the north of England is that there's such variety. There's the everyday and the eccentric.'

Ethan Hawke is an offbeat journalist who digs up danger...

Disney+ The Lowdown

NEW Available: Boxing Day Genre: Comedy drama Season: 1 Episodes: 8

Currently scaring us in cinemas as a serial killer in horror-movie sequel Black Phone 2, Ethan Hawke's latest TV series sees him switch to the right side of the law when he plays Lee Raybon, a grizzled and reckless journalist obsessed with taking down Oklahoma's bad guys.

Created by Sterlin Harjo, who brought us Reservation Dogs, eight-part noir The Lowdown follows Lee after his latest article dishes the dirt on Tulsa's powerful Washberg clan – and leads to the suspicious suicide of businessman and family outcast Dale Washberg (Tim Blake Nelson).

Realising that he has a proper story on his hands, Lee sets out to uncover the truth, which becomes even murkier when it transpires that Dale's aspiring-politician brother Donald (Kyle MacLachlan) has been having an affair with Dale's wife Betty Jo (Jeanne Tripplehorn).

Soon, Lee finds himself drawn into Tulsa's criminal underbelly as powerful forces work to prevent him finding out more…

'Lee's a character that's right up my alley,' says Hawke, 55. 'I love somebody who's willing to face danger without playing a tough guy. He's not tough – he's a hot mess but willing to do whatever it takes.'

The cast also includes Ryan Kiera Armstrong as Lee's precocious teenage daughter Francis, who longs to join her dad on his adventures, and Kaniehtiio Horn as his ex, Samantha, who's exasperated by Lee's endless digging. Also look out for Peter Dinklage, who makes a guest appearance later in the series.

'Making the whole show was like a party,' says Hawke. 'We shot for six months in Oklahoma, so I moved the whole family down to Tulsa. It was so much fun to make. Finding a really fun character you can sink your teeth into happens once a decade if you're lucky. I feel like I've been waiting for this part my whole life.'

itvX The Hunting Wives

NEW Available: Saturday 27 December
Genre: Drama Season: 1 Episodes: 8

Bed-hopping, back-stabbing and murder are all in the heady mix of ITVX's glossy new US drama The Hunting Wives, set in the privileged world of the filthy rich.

Adapted from May Cobb's 2021 bestselling novel of the same name, the story follows corporate wife Sophie O'Neil (The Beast in Me's Brittany Snow), who hopes a move from Massachusetts to Texas with her husband Graham (Evan Jonigkeit) will give the couple a much-needed new start following a traumatic incident back home.

But Sophie isn't prepared for life in Maple Brook – an affluent Texas community where wealth, decadence and power rule. Battling rising anxiety, Sophie encounters charismatic socialite Margo Banks (Billions' Malin Akerman), who's married to Graham's boss Jed Banks (Chicago Fire's Dermot Mulroney).

Margo swiftly draws Sophie into her elite clique – known as the Hunting Wives – a group of rich, gun-toting, hard-drinking, sexually charged women, whose members include pastor's wife Jill Thompson (Scandal's Katie Lowes) and sheriff's spouse Callie Baskin (Dopesick's Jaime Ray Newman).

SECRETS AND LIES

'Sophie's not from their world,' explains Snow, 39. 'The wives are very much a staple of East Texas and take her in begrudgingly. She sees their world through a different lens and starts being inspired by them – in a good and bad way.'

Dazzled by their lavish parties and exclusive hunting trips, Sophie revels in her new, glamorous life until tragedy strikes. A young local woman is found murdered in the woods and friendships are pushed to breaking point as the wives become entangled in a web of lies and sordid secrets.

'If you like mystery, thriller, intrigue, sex, a little bit of camp – this show has a bit of everything,' says Snow. 'It's so much fun to watch with a great mystery and a killer – pun intended – ending.'

Running SCARED

Sophie Turner is terrorised at a remote hideaway

Paramount+ Trust

NEW Available: Boxing Day
Genre: Thriller

As Sansa Stark in Game of Thrones, Sophie Turner endured almost unbearable suffering. Now, in her new suspense movie Trust, she's facing misfortune again.

Turner plays actor Lauren Lane, the star of a popular sitcom, who's caught up in a scandal when intimate images of her are leaked online.

Desperate to get away from the negative publicity, Lauren escapes to a remote cabin. However, at the seemingly peaceful retreat, she becomes the target of a brutal home invasion and must fight for her life as she is betrayed by someone she trusts.

Turner knows what it's like to become tabloid fodder herself – during her divorce from US singer Joe Jonas – and she could identify with her character's need to get out of the public eye.

'I did feel like my privacy was being invaded,' she says. 'When this script came to me, the idea of escaping a media storm was something that was very real.'

As the tension rises, Lauren finds herself trapped in a boiler room that begins to fill with water...

'I never get to do physical roles, ever, so it was nice to do that,' says Turner, 29. 'For the underwater scene, we had to do free-diving prep and I got to train with amazing people. I felt very lucky to be able to do something new.'

Dame Helen Mirren as June and Kate Winslet as her daughter Julia

Crisis at Christmas

A touching family drama starring Dame Helen Mirren and Kate Winslet

NETFLIX Goodbye June

NEW Available: Christmas Eve
Genre: Drama

Two of the UK's biggest stars – Kate Winslet and Dame Helen Mirren – join forces for a bittersweet movie about four adult siblings who must face up to the imminent death of their terminally ill mother.

Winslet plays Julia, who, with her siblings Helen (Toni Collette), Molly (Andrea Riseborough) and Connor (Johnny Flynn), and their father Bernie (Timothy Spall), are thrown together when matriarch June (Mirren) becomes ill in the run-up to Christmas. As the siblings, and their young children, come together in a hospital room, past grievances and resentments rear their head.

'Christmas is such a heightened, emotional time for anybody,' says Winslet. 'There is a terrible tension between Julia and Molly that has mounted up over the years. Their suppressed fury is palpable as they desperately compete for their mother's love and approval.'

Meanwhile, eldest sister Helen, pregnant in her 40s, has been working overseas, while Connor has been June's chief carer.

'Connor is soulful,' adds Winslet. 'He still lives at home and this turn of events overwhelms him.'

The project sees Winslet, 50, make her directing debut, helming a script written by Joe Anders, her son with ex-husband Sir Sam Mendes, who was inspired by the loss of his own grandmother.

'I read the screenplay and it was clear to me, having read hundreds of screenplays, that my son was indeed a proper writer,' she says.

As Winslet set about recruiting her cast, she had to use all her powers of persuasion to get Mirren to sign up – as the 80-year-old star had pledged never to appear on screen as someone with cancer.

'It takes a huge amount of trust in a director for an actress to look so broken-down the way Helen does in the film,' says Winslet. 'I shot her in extreme close-up in many scenes, especially as the audience inches closer to the end with her. It's magical when you have actors at that level – they bring things to a story that utterly floor you.'

14-DAY GUIDE

The first showings and the best of the rest

Channing Tatum in Roofman

Roofman

From Tuesday 16 December, buy or rent from digital stores including Prime Video and Sky Store

PREMIERE Channing Tatum is an absolute hoot in this entertaining stranger-than-fiction true-crime comedy drama about a desperate divorced dad-turned-criminal whose bizarre modus operandi – cutting a hole in the roofs of McDonald's restaurants to rob them – earned him the nickname of the title. Even more outlandish, however, was what happened after he broke out of prison and hid out undetected in a Toys 'R' Us store in North Carolina for six months. Co-writer and director Derek Cianfrance (The Place Beyond the Pines) deftly balances the story's comic elements with surprisingly heartfelt dramatic ones, while Tatum juggles his character's mix of smartness and stupidity with bags of charm. ★★★★

Hallow Road

Sunday 21 December, 9.50am & 11pm, Sky Premiere

PREMIERE Apart from voices over a mobile phone, this creepy, lean chiller is a two-hander set almost entirely within the confines of a car. Rosamund Pike and Matthew Rhys play parents racing in their vehicle to get to their daughter, who seems to have been involved in a crash leading to a tragedy. Events and revelations unfold as their journey progresses, with Pike and Rhys delivering astonishingly captivating performances. Aided by William Gillies' eloquent, if eerie script and inventive direction by Babak Anvari, this is one of the most compelling car rides you are likely to encounter. ★★★★

The Little Mermaid

Sunday 21 December, 4.50pm, C4

PREMIERE At times lovingly re-creating moments from Disney's 1989 cartoon, at others giving the tale new twists, this live-action remake is vibrant and joyous. Halle Bailey shines as Ariel, the young mermaid who's lovesick for the surface world. Her soaring rendition of Part of Your World raises goosebumps, while

STAR RATINGS
★★★★★ Excellent
★★★★ Very good
★★★ Good ★★ Average

Under the Sea is another showstopper. Melissa McCarthy is also a standout, giving a deliciously evil performance as baddie Ursula, and, even if some characters – marine sidekicks Flounder (Jacob Tremblay), Sebastian (Daveed Diggs) and Scuttle (Awkwafina) – are so realistic they lack the charm of their 2D originals, this visual treat is strong enough to surpass the original. ★★★★

Goodbye June

From Christmas Eve, Netflix

PREMIERE Kate Winslet proves herself a highly accomplished film-maker with her first film as a director, deftly balancing moving drama and bittersweet comedy with this tale of four fractious siblings trying to come together when their terminally ill mum is admitted to hospital in the run-up to Christmas. The story's set-up is a little contrived, but its family dynamics ring true. Every character here is complex, messy and real: eldest sibling Mia (played by Winslet), resentful younger sister Ruth (Andrea Riseborough), flaky middle sister Sarah (Toni Collette), flailing brother (Johnny Flynn), boorish father (Timothy Spall) and stoic matriarch June (Helen Mirren). On paper, this British film could have turned out a disaster. Instead, it's a triumph. ★★★★

A Minecraft Movie

Christmas Day, 7.10am & 6.15pm, Sky Premiere

PREMIERE This goofy yarn, based on the bestselling videogame, is entertaining once we get past a clunky set-up explaining how Jack Black has ended up in Minecraft's Overworld universe, where everything is made up of blocks. Then Jason Momoa's washed-up videogame champ, orphaned siblings Sebastian Hansen and Emma Myers and real estate agent Danielle Brooks are sucked through a portal into the Overworld and join up with Black to get home. In a quest involving combat with zombies, skeletons and piggy hordes headed by an evil witch, Black and Momoa go full bore at the silliness, while director Jared Hess and the script lean into the puerility, sprinkling the action with plenty of fan-pleasing references and memes. ★★★

Sinners

Boxing Day, 11.25am & 8pm, Sky Premiere

PREMIERE From Black Panther director Ryan Coogler comes this exhilarating horror thriller set in the US Deep South in 1932. Michael B Jordan plays identical twin brothers who have returned to their home town in the Mississippi Delta to open a juke joint under the racist noses of the Ku Klux Klan. It is supernatural evil, however, that comes knocking on their saloon's opening night. The action is lurid and gory but never overwhelms the performances, which include striking roles for Miles Caton as a talented blues guitarist, Delroy Lindo as an alcoholic veteran musician, Hailee Steinfeld and Wunmi Mosaku as strong-willed women from the twins' pasts, and Jack O'Connell as the story's devilishly creepy interloper. ★★★★

Puss in Boots: The Last Wish

Boxing Day, 3.20pm, BBC1

This fun sequel to 2011's Puss in Boots sees our hero with just one of his nine lives left. Consigned to a cat sanctuary, Antonio Banderas' Puss sinks into a hilarious existential crisis. But the dynamic plot soon has him chasing a map leading to the fabled Wishing Star, desperate to restore his nine lives. There's much to admire here, the stylish animation laced with galloping action and sly, knowing gags. ★★★★

Marcel the Shell with Shoes On

The Phoenician Scheme

Saturday 27 December, 9.35am & 6.15pm, Sky Premiere

PREMIERE Director Wes Anderson gets the tastebuds of both lovers and haters tingling with this typically quirky comedy. It follows Benicio Del Toro's ruthless 1950s industrialist, as he attempts to reconcile with his neglected daughter, novitiate nun Liesl (a superb Mia Threapleton), and persuade her to become his sole heir. The pair fend off assassination attempts while Del Toro strives to pull off his latest business venture and deals with a bizarre array of characters played by the starry likes of Tom Hanks, Scarlett Johansson and Benedict Cumberbatch. A satire may lurk within the plot, but if so, it's largely lost amid the visual whimsy and deadpan dialogue. ★★★

Friendship

From Tuesday 30 December, Paramount+/9.30am & 10.30pm, Sky Premiere

PREMIERE A cringe comedy starring master of the genre, Tim Robinson, this sees his misfit suburban dad become entranced with his cool new neighbour (Paul Rudd) and his male friend group. Trouble is, Robinson makes a complete ass of himself in their presence. Robinson is brilliant at creating a character at once pitiable and excruciatingly irritating, as he has shown in his Netflix sketch series I Think You Should Leave. Not everything works, but this comedy will make you laugh at the most unexpected moments. ★★★★

New Year's Eve, 9.35am, BBC1

Marcel the Shell (voiced by co-writer Jenny Slate) lives discreetly with Connie (Isabella Rossellini) and uses improvisational techniques to obtain resources out of sight of humans. But he finds fame when a documentarian (director Dean Fleischer Camp) discovers the pair and his film goes viral. Mixing observational comedy with moving insight, this largely stop-motion mock doc excels. ★★★★

Hard to believe, but Billy Wilder's classic comedy had American censors furrowing their brows back in 1959 with its salacious mixture of snappy mobsters and comic cross-dressers (Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon), not to mention Marilyn Monroe squeezing herself into a series of increasingly tight dresses. These days, it all seems so innocent, so sit back and appreciate the superb performances, not least Curtis' pitch-perfect imitation of Cary Grant. 1959, U, 122MIN

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

A darkly amusing and heart-breakingly sad comedy drama from writer-director Martin McDonagh. Reuniting with his In Bruges stars, Colin Farrell and Brendan Gleeson, the film is set in 1923 on Inisherin, a fictional island off Ireland's west coast. Farrell's Pádraic is 'one of life's good guys' and best friends with Gleeson's more cultured Colm. Until Colm puts an abrupt end to their friendship for seemingly nebulous reasons. Baffled, Pádraic persists, eventually leading Colm to lay down a drastic ultimatum: every time Pádraic speaks to him, he'll cut off one of his own fingers. Farrell and Gleeson are predictably brilliant, while Barry Keoghan lends scene-stealing support. This is another wildly accomplished outing for McDonagh. 2022, 15, 114MIN

This surprise box-office smash hit works really well as a feisty feel-good movie, but also has a grittier side with plenty of meaningful things to say about the effects of redundancy. Six desperate, out-of-work Sheffield men see male strippers coining in money and decide to do a show of their own in which they'll go 'the full monty'. Robert Carlyle is the ringleader, Mark Addy is a scene-stealer as his pal, Tom Wilkinson adds some marvellously bittersweet depth to his role as Carlyle's one-time foreman and Paul Barber, Hugo Speer and Steve Huison also make the most of the film's cheery, cheeky and daring moments. It's easy to see why this film became one of the most successful British movies in history – and it's an inspired touch to start the film with a real documentary about the booming Sheffield of the early 1970s. 1997, 15, 91MIN

As the second round gets under way at Alexandra Palace in London, the big guns will be looking to avoid any potential banana skins, as the likes of Rob Cross, Michael Smith and Dave Chisnall crashed out at this stage last year. After two breaks over the festive fortnight, the players are back on the oche in pursuit of the Sid Waddell Trophy, with the semi-finals set for Friday 2 January.

Australia v England: Fourth Test

Christmas Day-Monday 29 Dec, play starts 11.30pm, TNT Sports 1

The 100,000-capacity Melbourne Cricket Ground will be a daunting stage for Ben Stokes' men as the rivals meet in the traditional Boxing Day Ashes Test. Stokes and his teammates Joe Root, Zak Crawley and Mark Wood will have bad memories of Australia's victory in Melbourne during the 2021/22 series, when England were bowled out for a second-innings score of just 68 – their lowest total on Australian soil since 1904.

New Year guide

Szoboszlai's wonder strike

BEST GOAL

'The Premier League is the best league in the world and you see amazing goals every week. My favourite has been Liverpool's Dominik Szoboszlai's free kick against Arsenal in the 1-0 win at Anfield in August. It was such a big game and he had no right to score from so far out.'

Wolves' boss Rob Edwards (centre)

BIGGEST DISAPPOINTMENT

'Wolves have flirted with relegation before, but I never expected them to have just two points from their opening 13 games. It shows the danger of selling your best players, with Matheus Cunha the latest big name to depart Molineux.'

FUNNIEST MOMENT

'Goal celebrations can be fun. I especially liked Erling Haaland's robot celebration after the City striker scored in November against Bournemouth – a great flashback to Peter Crouch's famous moves.'

Battle of the Sexes

Can Aryna Sabalenka defeat Nick Kyrgios in Dubai?

LIVE TENNIS

Sunday 28 Dec, from 3.45pm, BBC1

Two of the biggest names in tennis – one male, one female – go head-to-head in Dubai when women's world No 1 Aryna Sabalenka and Australia's former Wimbledon finalist Nick Kyrgios face off in the Battle of the Sexes.

The exhibition match comes 52 years after the most famous Battle of the Sexes when Billie Jean King defeated fellow American Bobby Riggs, then aged 55, in straight sets in Houston, while a later version saw Jimmy Connors beat Martina Navratilova in 1992.

Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs in 1973

SHOWPIECE EVENT

This new match-up looks like another intriguing contest. Australian Kyrgios, 30, has dropped down the rankings after missing most of the season with a career-threatening wrist injury. Meanwhile, his Belarusian opponent, 27, won the fourth Grand Slam of her career at the US Open this year and reached the finals in France and Australia.

The match will be the best of three sets, with the court and rules being modified to level the playing field. Kyrgios will be hitting into a smaller side of the court and both players will be limited to one serve – aimed at restricting Kyrgios' power advantage.

'A lot of the male players have said, "Look, you're representing all of us,"' says Kyrgios. 'So here I am in the firing line again. I'm not a stranger to taking heat from the media, but I'm excited whatever the result may be. I'm quite confident – but at the same time, I'm very aware she's dangerous.'
